Judging from the present political indications in the states which are to elect United States Senators next winter the Senate will be very close Senate 37 republicans, 37 democrats, and two who belong to neither party. The terms of 26 Senators expire next spring, and, deducting the retiring Senators, that body would stand 26 republicans, 23 democrats, and 1 independent (Mahone). Three democrats, one republican and one independent have already been elected from the states, respectively, of Mississippi, Kentucky, Louisians, Iowa and Virginia. These, added to those holding over, would make the Senate stand 26 democrats, 27 republicans and 2 independents, leaving the seats now occupied by 11 democrats, 9 republicans and 1 independent to be filled. Of LISLE THREAD, Silk Finished Hose (Bibbed), these it is certain, unless some political revolution should intervene, that Colorado, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Illinois will elect republicans. These, added to the 27 holding over, will give the republicans 37 Sepators. The states of Alabama, Arkansas, Deia-Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and West Virginia can as safely be counted democratic as the others just named can be classed republican. Nine democrats from these states would increase the membership of that party in the Senate to 35. The other states which elect senators next winter are New Jersey and Oregon, both of which may be 709 fairly considered doubtful, with the chances, especially in New Jersey, in favor of the republicans. But should the democrats succeed in carrying these two doubtful states the Senate would then stand as it does now-37 republicans, 37 democrats, and 2 independents. Senator Mahone, however, is an open aily of the republican party, and the presumption is that his readjuster colleague, Mr. Riddieberger, will follow his example. This would give the republicans control of the Senate-should the democrats succeed in carrying both New Jersey and Oregon-only through the two readjuster Senators, and such doubtful ascendancy is always unsatisfactory. Therefore the republicans will quite certainly make every effort to carry the doubtful states, and it is intimated that they will also undertake the capture of several southern states.

A bill has been introduced into the New York ering, and also for the better protection of the oblic, although that feature is not mentioned in the title of the proposed law. It requires pawnbrokers doing business with a capital of $3,000 to pay $100 license and additional $25 for every $1,000 of capital above that sum; to give surety in the sum of $2,000 for the observance of the ordinances regulating pawnbrokering; to keep a record of everything pawned in their places, and to make the same before 10 a.m. daily to the captain of the police precinct in which their oi-The bill allows no greater rate of interest than at the rate of 12 per cent, and prescribes a penalty of $100 for each violation of any of its pro-It also requires all pawnbrokers to send be made to a person under eighteen years of age. If this measure becomes a law and its provisions and long needed reforms in the interest of the public. It will, for example, be a great advantage to the poor, who are sometimes obliged to go to the pawnbroker for help, and it will also insure to the community a measure of protection against the criminal classes who habitually use some of these places as mere depositories for stolen goods. It may impose some minor hardships upon the honest and fair-dealing brokers, but since it will have and against which the better portion loudly and vehemently inveigh, it is presumed that the latter class would not oppose the passage of such a law in all parts of the country. On the contrary, a measure which not only protects the public but elevates the character of their own calling ought to and doubtless will have their hearty support.

The star routers received another black eye. to employ ring parlance, which ought to be admissible on this subject, in the Criminal Court yesterday. Judge Wylie overruled the motion of defendants for a bill of particulars as to the overt acts committed. An exception to the decision was taken by the defense, and the course of the latter looks as if they were resorting to the "laws delays," rather than face trial. Indeed, it is evident that the accused would gladly escape trial by means of a technicality. So far their efforts in this direction have failed. The legality of the indictments has stood the test of two assaults by the defendants' big array of legal talent, and there seems to be no reason to suppose that further efforts in that direction will be petty stealing is justifiable in relic-hunting. The stance, bear evidence of this fact, and the theft of Bible is another illustration of it. Of course, that Bible was taken because of its associand not for any intrinsic value it possessed, for it was what might be called a cheap book. NOW OPEN FOR INSPECTION,

OUR PARIS AND LONDON IMPORTATION OF WOOLLENS FOR GENTLEMEN'S WEAR.

In selecting Novelties for Spring 1882, great attention has been given to the selection of such styles as will satisfy the present tendency for the "Aesthetic." High art designs are not, indeed, suitable for every-day life; but it is, nevertheless, commendable to adorn life and add to its brightness by wearing such designs and colers as are in accord with cultivated taste, without descending to gaudiness or vulgarity. To secure this aim we have paid great attention to securing such a variety of styles and colors as will satisfy the aethetically inclined, but which are, at the same time, such as those who dress more quietly may wear.
